Do you think just because you're a university student, you're automatically "academic" enough to take on this job?
I am idealistic but I believe that the purpose of all ideals is to make them into reality. To do this, I believe in understanding how things work. In commerce we are taught human resource management and legal skills and if a person were to become a student leader without those skills they could encounter legal problems. In addition, I worked with government leaders on policy making, and that gives me some qualifications.

If elected what would your priorities be?

To ensure that the AMS advances the interest of the students over its own ideologies, and to allow students from a varied background to participate. Also to expand and promote the bait programs, such as the existing Bait-Bicycle and Bait-Textbook program. I will put AMS quarterly reports, UBC Senate and BOG on WebCT, and arrange them like a WebCT course. AMS and UBC can use the announcement boards to post relevant news and post their reports like course notes. Also, students can use WebCT discussion boards to express their opinions on the issues, something that is not possible with either AMS or UBC website.

Do you have any concerns about the planned development of University Boulevard?

I want to ensure campus development advances the academic mission of UBC as well as student interest, and that new businesses offer an alternative to students who don't go to AMS businesses to begin with.

What past experience do you have with "affairs" anyways?
Nahhhh, I'm loyal.

Do you think just because you're a university student, you're automatically "academic" enough to take on this job?

I started out in the AMS with the Student Environment Centre, I'm involved with sustainability groups on campus and I've volunteered in the Downtown eastside through the Learning Exchange.

If elected what would your priorities be?

In terms of campus development I'm looking at sustainable development and student prioritized spaces, such as child-care, study spaces and student residences. In academic life, I promote the universities' innovative programs. In campus life, I'd like to better integrate the social aspects with the academics, and to make the campus safer and more accessible to all.

Do you have any concerns about the planned development of University Boulevard?

A major concern is student consultation. How much say do students the process in the coming years as it's being developed and the plans finalize. I'm concerned about the quality of the new businesses. Is that space going to be utilized most effectively for students? I would definitely raise concerns of sustainable development. It doesn't just have be blocks of fast food joints; it should fulfill the local student community.

What past experience do you have with "affairs" anyways?

I haven't personally had an affair, although...Martha Piper [former President of UBC] was a pretty foxy lady. I kind of wish she was still around.

Do you think just because you're a university student, you're automatically "academic" enough to take on this job?

I don't have much experience with the AMS but I have worked for two provincial and federal parties, so I'm experienced that way.

If elected what would your priorities be?

My top priority is actually to improve the system, so we can improve the AMS government not just in the current year, but also in the years to come. I would like to create a miniature citizens' assembly of randomly selected students. They would be paid, and they would represent all students. They would provide reliable advice come voting time and the AMS and UBC with feedback that's representative of the whole student body. It's good for the university to listen to those who are interested in the issues, but there should be an informed group that represents all students.

Do you have any concerns about the planned development of University Boulevard?

We have to make sure there's abundant affordable student housing. It's important that we continue working with the Greater Vancouver Regional District to give all students a voice in development on campus.

What past experience do you have with "affairs" anyways?

I'm an expert in affairs. I had one in my dream last night. I'm out of control."

VP Academic

The VP Academic is the Donald Trump of the AMS organization: As the chair of the four Appointment Committees, whoever gets this job will fulfill the ego-boosting task of saying "you're hired!" and "you're fired!" to future AMS commissioners, service coordinators and the like. The VP Academic also sits at the head of a large handful of the AMS's other 12 committees handling everything from the Budget to Safety to Campus Planning and Development. And, like all AMS executives, the job comes with a tidy annual salary of nearly $21,000.
